COMMENT OF THE DAY

TOO SMALL

A LITTLE more than three weeks ago the Governor made his farewell address to the University Congress in which he dealt with the University's recovery and growth in the years of his Chancellorship. The Colony has every reason to be grateful for what has been accomplished. But in one respect the Governor's speech fell short of the mark. He appeared to underestimate the size of the problem with which the University is now faced. The problem—as the headmaster of Wah Yan College, Father Barrett, so clearly underlined on Wednesday—is the need for substantial and urgent expansion. This has indeed been the case for some considerable time but the pressure is now mounting and Father Barrett's remarks are timely. Recent reports in this newspaper have underlined the demand for more places and new courses. The funds the University possesses, however, enable it to think only in terms of small increases. Large numbers of students are leaving the Colony to study in overseas universities. What Father Barrett is saying is that they ought to be able to sit for their degrees here—and he is right.

NOT ENOUGH

NEGOTIATIONS are now going on between Government and the University to convert the annual grant into a triennial allocation. This will be a great improvement if it is eventually agreed that it falls a little short of the five-year grants provided by the British Government to United Kingdom universities, the new arrangement will give the University more scope to plan expansion. But this will still not provide nearly enough for the kind of expansion that is needed and this "can be achieved only by great energy, a large outlay and a far-reaching and broad-minded plan." The point to be made here is that it is time the University thought about taking a bold expansion plan to the people who will most benefit from it—commercial and industrial circles in Hongkong. The Governor has assured us the University is now wholeheartedly accepted by the community. And the generous contributions made by the CMU and various companies to the technical college should encourage the University to seek its needs in this direction also.

SUPPORT

THERE is a fair request to be made to industry that the University can supply a much greater share of Hongkong's needs if it is given the necessary support. And it would help if British firms could consider a major policy change—to fill a larger number of potentially big technical and administrative posts with men educated at Hongkong University in place of men from home. How many students should the University aim to take? It would be reckless to think in terms of the size of European universities, until the Colony has comparable facilities for secondary education. What is needed is a set of conservative objectives but anything less than a plan to double the present number of students over a period of years will not be sufficient. It will involve large contributions from the community, but this is money it could well afford and would amount to only a small fraction of the sum going into other forms of investment. And certainly commercial and industrial circles have not given the University the consideration it deserves. Is it too late to ask whether the Governor could institute some serious talks on this question before he leaves?

Major Democratic Parties Pledge Support

Paris, Oct. 31. FRENCH Premier—designate, 37-year-old Felix Gaillard, had been assured of the support of "favourable attitude" of all France's major "democratic" parties tonight in his attempt to form France's 24th postwar government.

POLICE FIRE ON DRIVER

2am Incident

The driver of a private car was injured in the wrist by broken window glass when a party of police opened fire on his car at about 2 o'clock this morning in Mount Butler Road, near Sir Cecil's Ride.

The identity of the driver was not revealed.

A Police party on plainclothes duty halted the private car with the intention of checking the identity of the occupants. While they were doing so, the driver suddenly drove away and refused to stop when called upon to do so. The car disappeared just as the Police opened fire.

The driver later reported the matter to the Eastern Police Station, where it was found that he sustained cuts on the wrist due to broken glass caused by the Police shots.

The man explained that he was not sure of the identity of the men as they were in plainclothes. He was sent to the Queen Mary Hospital for treatment, but was not detained.

Hyde Park Corner Plan

London, Oct. 31. A £4,550,000 plan to speed traffic at Hyde Park Corner, London's busiest intersection, was announced today by the London County Council.

It includes 10 passenger subways, and a 330-yard two-lane traffic tunnel, or "under-pass", between Piccadilly and Knightsbridge.

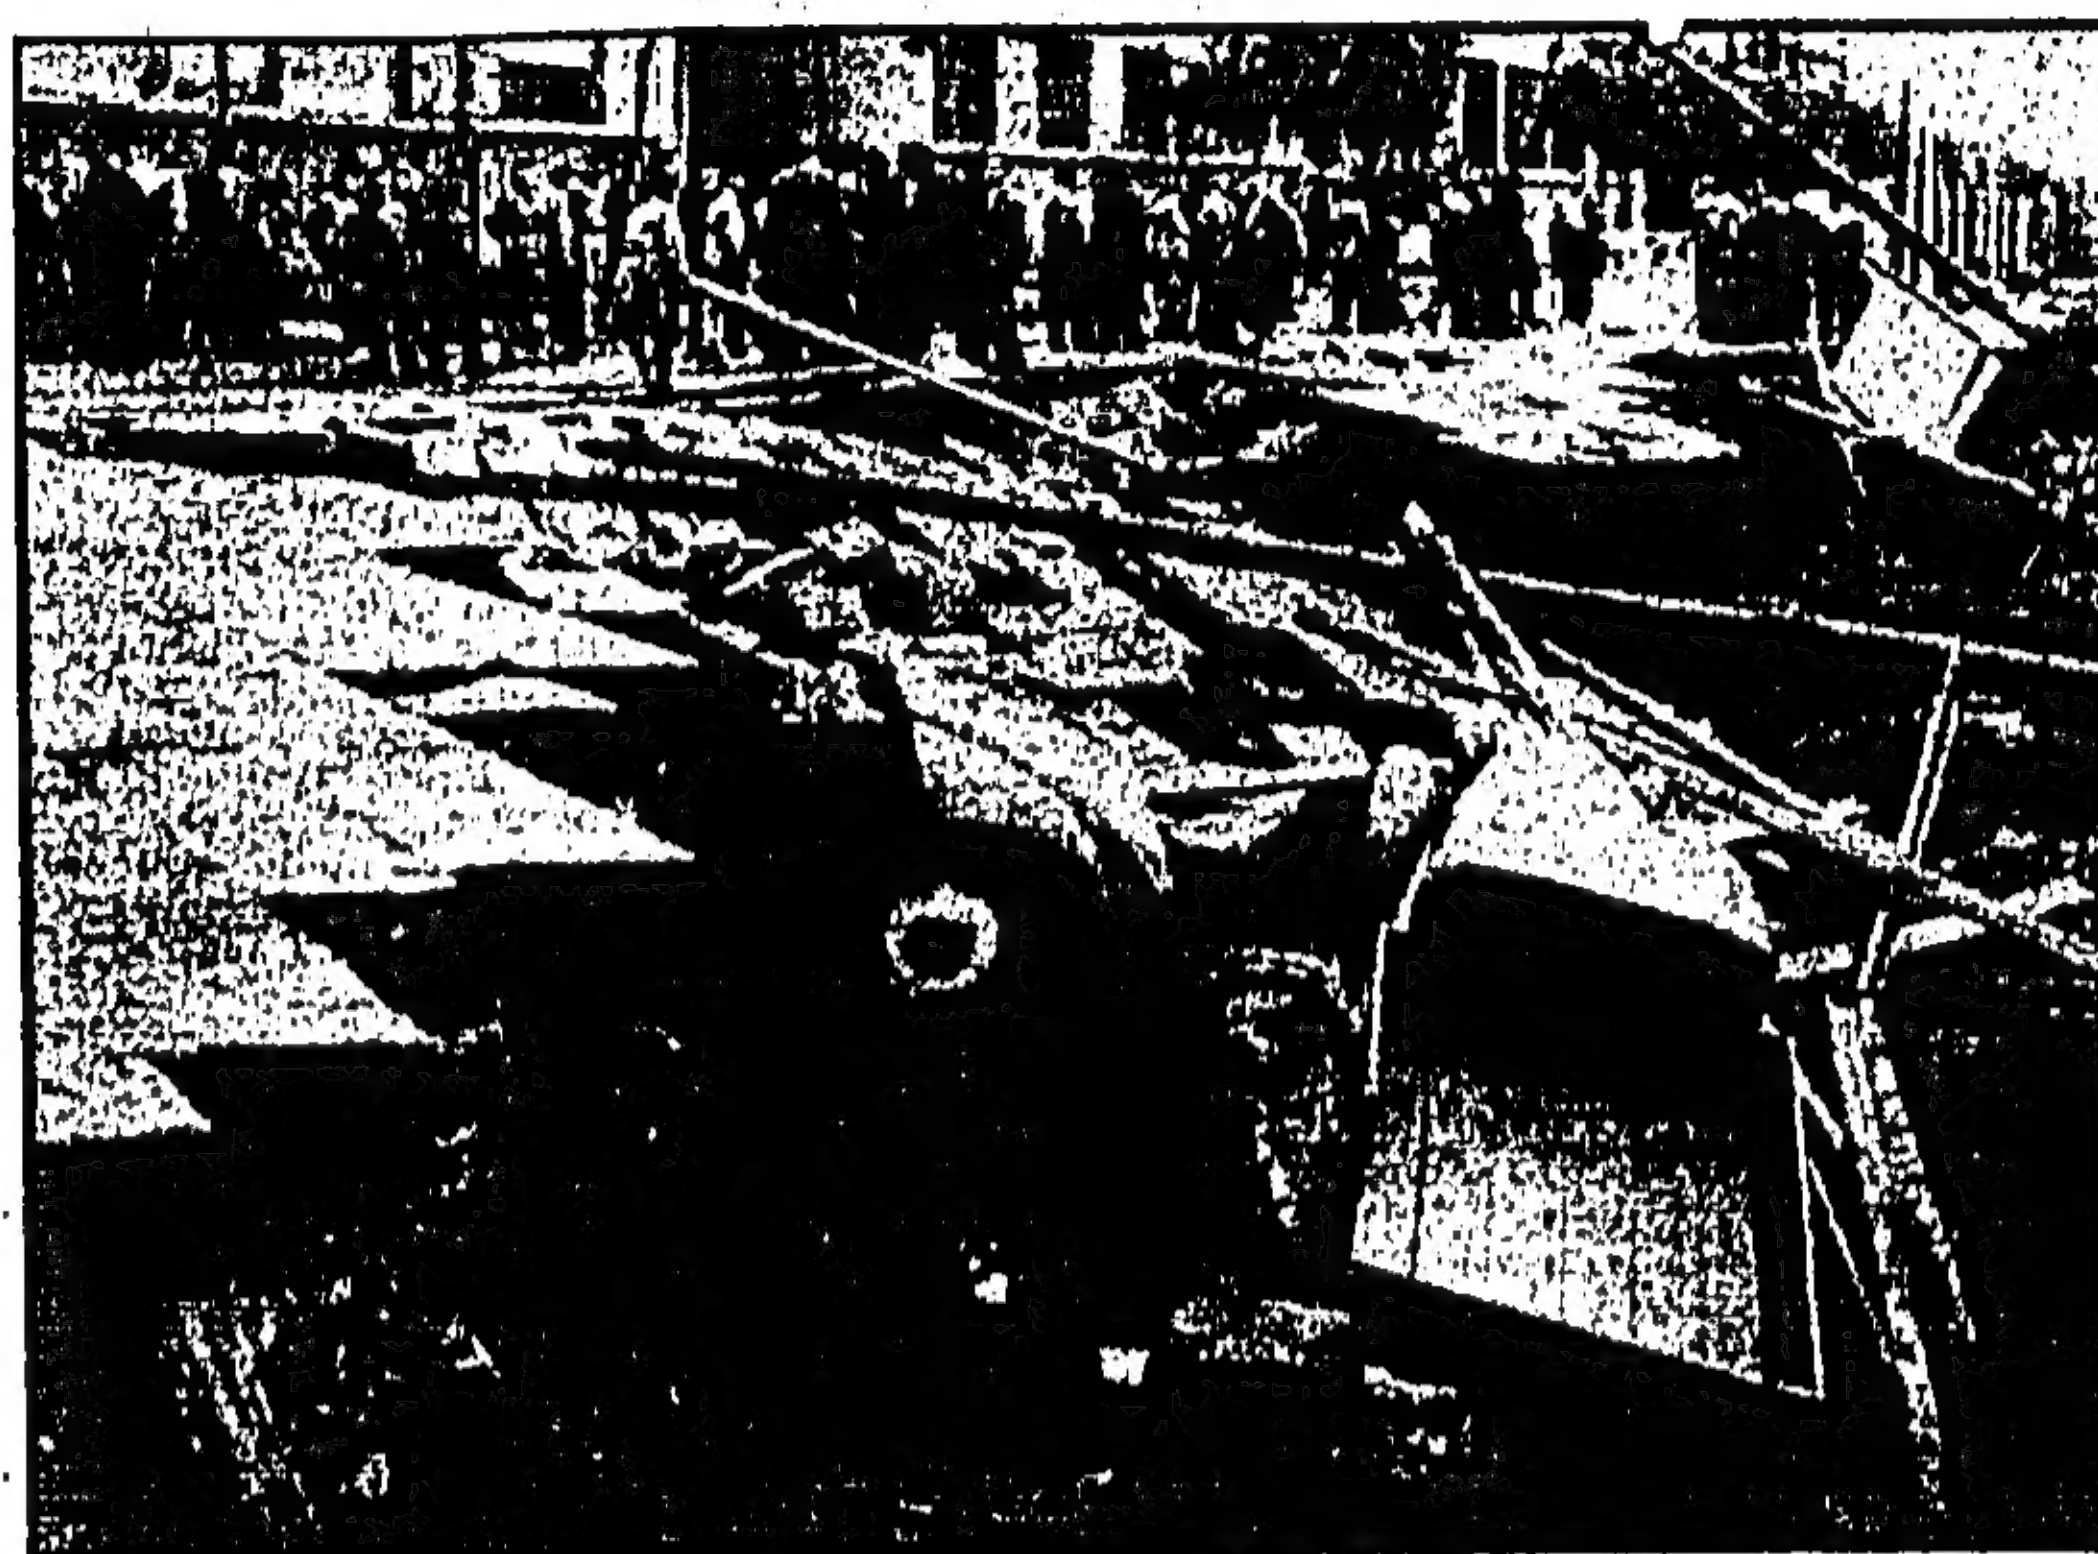

The scheme involved larger roundabouts at Hyde Park Corner—where police have counted 91,010 vehicles in a 12-hour period—and Marble Arch.

A small portion of Green Park by Hyde Park Corner and a small strip of Hyde Park would be absorbed in the new layout.—China Mail Special.

ZHUKOV DECISION SAID MADE

Moscow, Oct. 31. Russia's Communist Party leaders were reported tonight to have made the fateful decision on the future of Marshal Georgi Zhukov following his abrupt dismissal from the powerful post of Minister of Defence.

Reliable reports reaching London said it was now almost certain the decision was to drop Marshal Zhukov from the Party's 16-member Presidium and presumably from membership in the Party Central Committee.

The formal announcement of the decision has been expected today. But as the day wore on there was no word in any of the Soviet newspapers or from the official agency Tass.

Western quarters remained convinced, however, that it was only a matter of a day or two, before the Central Committee would break the news of its deliberations to both the Russian people and the outside world.

NEW POST?

Informed sources said the final decision probably was taken yesterday and the delay in the announcement might be explained by discussion on a new post for the Soviet war hero. The only word on Marshal Zhukov's future so far was the statement by the Communist Party Secretary, Nikita Khrushchev, two nights ago that he would get one in keeping with his "experience and qualifications." That statement, however, has not yet appeared in the Soviet press. All the Russian people know so far is that Zhukov has been replaced as Defence Minister by Marshal Rodion Malinovsky.—United Press.

Legal Aid Advocated For Hongkong

QUESTIONS ASKED IN COMMONS

London, Oct. 31. Hongkong was the subject of three inquiries in the House of Commons question time today.

Welsh Labour Member Stephen Davies, questioning on the employment situation there, was told that although there are no official statistics of unemployment in Hongkong it is estimated that the total number of jobs has not decreased in the last 12 months although the entry of China refugees has increased competition for them.

Parliamentary Secretary for the Colonies John Profumo added that between October 1, 1956 and September 30, 1957, 138 small factories and workshops had been closed because of unsuitable premises. During that period the total number of registered factories increased from 3,293 to 3,359 and the number of industrial workers in them by about 3,000.

Serious Crimes

Glasgow Labour member John Rankin was told by Mr Profumo that 22,597 "serious crimes" were reported in the Colony in 1956 and 12,101 persons had been charged or summoned.

"Is not it rather disturbing that in a British territory today a person may possibly be sentenced for life imprisonment, without having the chance of being defended, because he has no money?" said Mr Rankin.

Mr Rankin asked the Minister to urge the Hongkong administration to adopt a system of legal aid, similar to that of Singapore.

Mr Profumo said the possibility of introducing the provision of legal aid was at present under consideration by the Hongkong Attorney-General.

Mr Profumo, replying to a question by Mr Wilfrid Pelling, Labour, a former Postmaster-General, said in 1956 97 workers in Hongkong were reported killed while at work and 4,504 injured. For 1955, Mr Profumo said, the figures were 85 and 2974 respectively.—United Press & Reuter.

TALKED IN COURT WOMAN PUT IN CELLS FOR DAY

A bespectacled, well-dressed woman in her forties was put in the dock at Kowloon Magistracy this morning when she added her voice to that of a witness testifying before Mr T. Creedon and disturbed Court proceedings.

The Magistrate, who made the order, was hearing a case of disorderly conduct. He told the woman, Chan Suet-mui, "I'll deal with you later."

UN ACTION ON HK REFUGEES

New York, Oct. 31. Britain and the Chinese Nationalist Government were understood to be moving today to have the United Nations take action to improve the lot of about 800,000 Chinese refugees from the mainland now in Hongkong.

The General Assembly's Social and Humanitarian Committee is due to debate the situation shortly.

The Executive Committee of the United Nations Refugee Fund recommended that the current assembly should take up the question.

NO RESOLUTION

Informed sources said today that no resolution was on paper so far, but both the British and Chinese delegations were working separately in that direction, though neither might itself sponsor the draft because of their personal involvement.

An authoritative Chinese source said that the United Nations had "neglected" the fate of the refugees for too long. The Chinese was working to obtain as much help as possible for them, in food, shelter, repatriation and resettlement, he said.

The source conceded that financial aid would involve an astronomical sum but he added: "The United Nations must recognise that the Chinese refugees in Hongkong are a matter of international concern."

He said the Hongkong Government was doing all it could to help them, but its resources were limited. Some 160,000 refugees had gone to Formosa, he said.—Reuter.

Thirty-one-year-old surgeon Charles Evans relayed a message to the British Embassy here today, saying that he and his Alpinist wife hoped to reach the foot of Mount Everest by November 1.

They and 11 porters left Kathmandu for Nemohe Bazar on October 23.

Evans wrote to a member of the Embassy that his Himalayan honeymoon was "pleasant in fine sunny weather through the most beautiful scenes of green Nepal mountains."—United Press.

American Bases In Britain Vital To Free World

London, Oct. 31.

The Prime Minister, Mr Harold Macmillan, said today that the American bases in Britain were "vital" to the defence of Britain and the free world.

A left-wing Labour member, Mr Emrys Hughes, had asked in the House of Commons whether he had discussed with President Eisenhower the desirability of removing the United States bases from Britain. Mr Macmillan replied: "We are now contributing to collective defence not only by building up our own nuclear capacity, but also, like our allies, by providing the United States with bases on our soil. These bases are a vital and integral part of the defence not only of this country but of the free world."

Mr Macmillan went on: "The danger to the people of this country in the event of their removal at this time would be far greater than an increased danger that might result from the development of rocket weapons."

No Alteration

Mr Hughes also asked whether the Prime Minister had discussed with President Eisenhower the increased danger to Britain following the development of rocket warfare. Mr Macmillan replied: "The development of rocket weapons has not altered the situation in which the maintenance of peace and the protection of the free world continue to be dependent largely on the nuclear capacity of the United States and the threat of retaliation to deter a would-be aggressor."

Other points Mr Macmillan made in reply to questions by Mr Hughes about his talks with President Eisenhower were: ★ MIDDLE EAST: "We have a regular interchange of information with our American friends on the Middle East as on other questions. This continued during the visit which Mr Selwyn Lloyd (the Foreign Secretary) and I recently paid to Washington, and is still going on." ★ CIVIL DEFENCE: "Civil defence was not discussed. There is already a full and frank exchange of information on civil defence with the United States and other North Atlantic Treaty Organisation countries."

In Favour

★ POOLING SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE: "The British Government is entirely in favour of pooling scientific knowledge in the interests of peace, subject to the need to safeguard national security. Much has been accomplished in the field. For example, in the Organisation for European Economic Co-operation, and especially the European Productivity Agency. "I believe that a new impetus will be given to this work of co-operation as a result of my talks with President Eisenhower,"—Reuter.

ROYAL NAVY CONSCRIPTION TO END

London, Oct. 31.

Plans to end conscription in the Royal Navy in a few months are included in proposals to streamline the Navy reserves to a modern-war pattern, it was reliably learned today.

The scheme for a new form of naval reserve, announced on October 18, is now being worked out in detail. There are about 13,000 active volunteer reservists. The Royal Naval Reserve, the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve, and the recently established headquarters reserve will be merged into one body to fit Britain's new mobilization plans.—China Mail Special.

Settlement Near As Talks Renewed

Tokyo, Nov. 1.

Hopes for a settlement brightened today as the worst Japanese maritime strike in history moved into its seventh day.

Today is the final day of the "second wave" of the Japan Seamen's Union's work stoppage. But the Union on Wednesday ordered a five-day extension to the strike. Informed sources today, however, said that both Union and management negotiators who renewed talks yesterday "were almost certain to reach agreement when they met again today."

Prediction

They predicted that the strike extension affecting all ships over 2,000 tons would be called off. Meanwhile, the number of ships tied up in Japan's major ports continued to mount. The latest figures of the Transportation Ministry placed the number at 158—89 ocean-going and 69 coastal vessels, aggregating more than 800,000 gross tons.

The losses from the strike which started with a "first wave" on Friday of last week have been estimated at about 444,000,000 yen (US$1,800,000) up to Wednesday for shipping companies alone.

Complaining

Exporters also have been complaining that the strike would create complaints and cancellation of orders for Japan's vital export goods and would make foreigners "lose confidence in Japan."

The striking seamen have been seeking a 20 per cent boost in wages while the shipowners, so far, have only offered a 17 per cent raise.

The sources which predicted some sort of settlement today said that one major reason for their belief was the striking Union had just about exhausted its "Struggle Fund." The negotiations are being conducted with Gitaro Wakamura of the Government's Seamen's Labour Relations Commission acting as a mediator.—United Press.

ROCKET DIDN'T FUNCTION PROPERLY

Cape Canaveral, Florida, Oct. 31.

A missile fired at the rocket test site here last night had to be destroyed when it failed to function properly, it was announced today.

A Defence Department statement said the missile was launched shortly before midnight. It was observed rising to about 30,000 feet. The missile was destroyed "by the range safety officer when instrumentation disclosed malfunction," the announcement said.

The missile was said to be a Jupiter version of the army's intermediate range missile which contained equipment for special tests.—Reuter.

CRUSADE AGAINST NUDITY A SUCCESS

London, Oct. 31.

The Public Morality Council, presided over by Lord Macdonald of Gwaenysgor, in a general report today, congratulated five music hall girls who went on strike rather than take part in a nude revue.

Mr P. C. Tomlinson, the Council's Director, said at the Council's annual meeting tonight that the crusade against nudity had been successful.

He said that several theatres "engaging in the harmful practice of near nudity" had already been forced to close. Soon, he said, one could write "finis" to "this deplorable chapter in the history of the British theatre."

Tomlinson said that letters protesting against indecency were flowing into the Council's office. He said most of them were inspired by the immorality of television programmes and by a cover on the weekly magazine "Punch" showing pin-ups.

"Punch's" editors objected that the cover referred to only the "milk out of the pin-up press." Punch lamented "it is difficult to satirise anything in this country because people may take you seriously."—France-Press.

'MARTIAN' ENTERS FRANCE

Paris, Oct. 31.

As the French Cabinet crisis neared the end of its 31st day a young man dressed as a Martian presented himself at the Elysee Palace with a "telegram from Mars" for President Rene Coty.

It read: "Cable from Mars to France. We want to enter into contact with earth. For that we are waiting for the formation of a French government. Hurry up."

Police invited the masked and black-clad "Martian" into a police station. They let him go after making sure he was not from another planet, but was M. Daniel Praga, 27, a commercial traveller with a sense of urgency—and humour.—China Mail Special.

Peers In Uproar Over Government Suggestion: Women In The House Of Lords

Yugoslav Mission To Moscow: Tito Is Out

Belgrade, Oct. 31. Two Yugoslav Vice-Presidents, Mr. Edvard Kardelj and Lieutenant-General Alexander Rankovic, will be in the Yugoslav delegation to Moscow for the October Revolution celebration, the Yugoslav news agency reported today.

President Tito was at first expected to lead the delegation, but it was announced earlier this week he was suffering from lumbago and would not be able to travel abroad for some months.

Yugoslav Vice-Presidents, ranked two and three after the President, will head a six-member top-level delegation.

A REACTION?

The announcement that President Tito was unable to travel abroad was interpreted in Belgrade as a reaction to the sudden removal of Marshal Georgi Zhukov from his post of Soviet Defence Minister.

Though it was not doubted that the Yugoslav leader really was suffering from lumbago, his decision not to go to Moscow because of this ailment was interpreted as more a "diplomatic illness" in protest against either the reason for Marshal Zhukov's removal or else against the way in which it was carried out.

ZHUKOV'S HOST

President Tito was Marshal Zhukov's host only two weeks before, when the Soviet Marshal was an official guest in Yugoslavia.

An announcement by the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug said Mr. Kardelj and Mr. Rankovic would go to Moscow at the invitation of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party and the Soviet Government.

They will attend celebrations centred on November 7, the 40th anniversary of the Russian Revolution.—Router.

POPULATIONS OF THE WORLD

Washington, Oct. 31. China, India, the Soviet Union and the United States, together, contain half the population of the world, the U.S. Commerce Department said in a report published today.

Six other countries contained one sixth of the world's population, the report said. They are Japan, Indonesia, Pakistan, Brazil, the United Kingdom and West Germany.

India is expected to have a population of 388,707,000 by January 1, 1958 and 503,702,000 by January 1, 1960, the report said.

Estimates for the Soviet Union for the two dates were given as 206,989,000 and 209,553,000 and for the United 172,722,000 and 175,644,000.

The latest statistics on Communist China date back to 1953 and give that country's population as 682,603,000.—France-Press.

UNION BOSS DEFIES EXECUTIVE

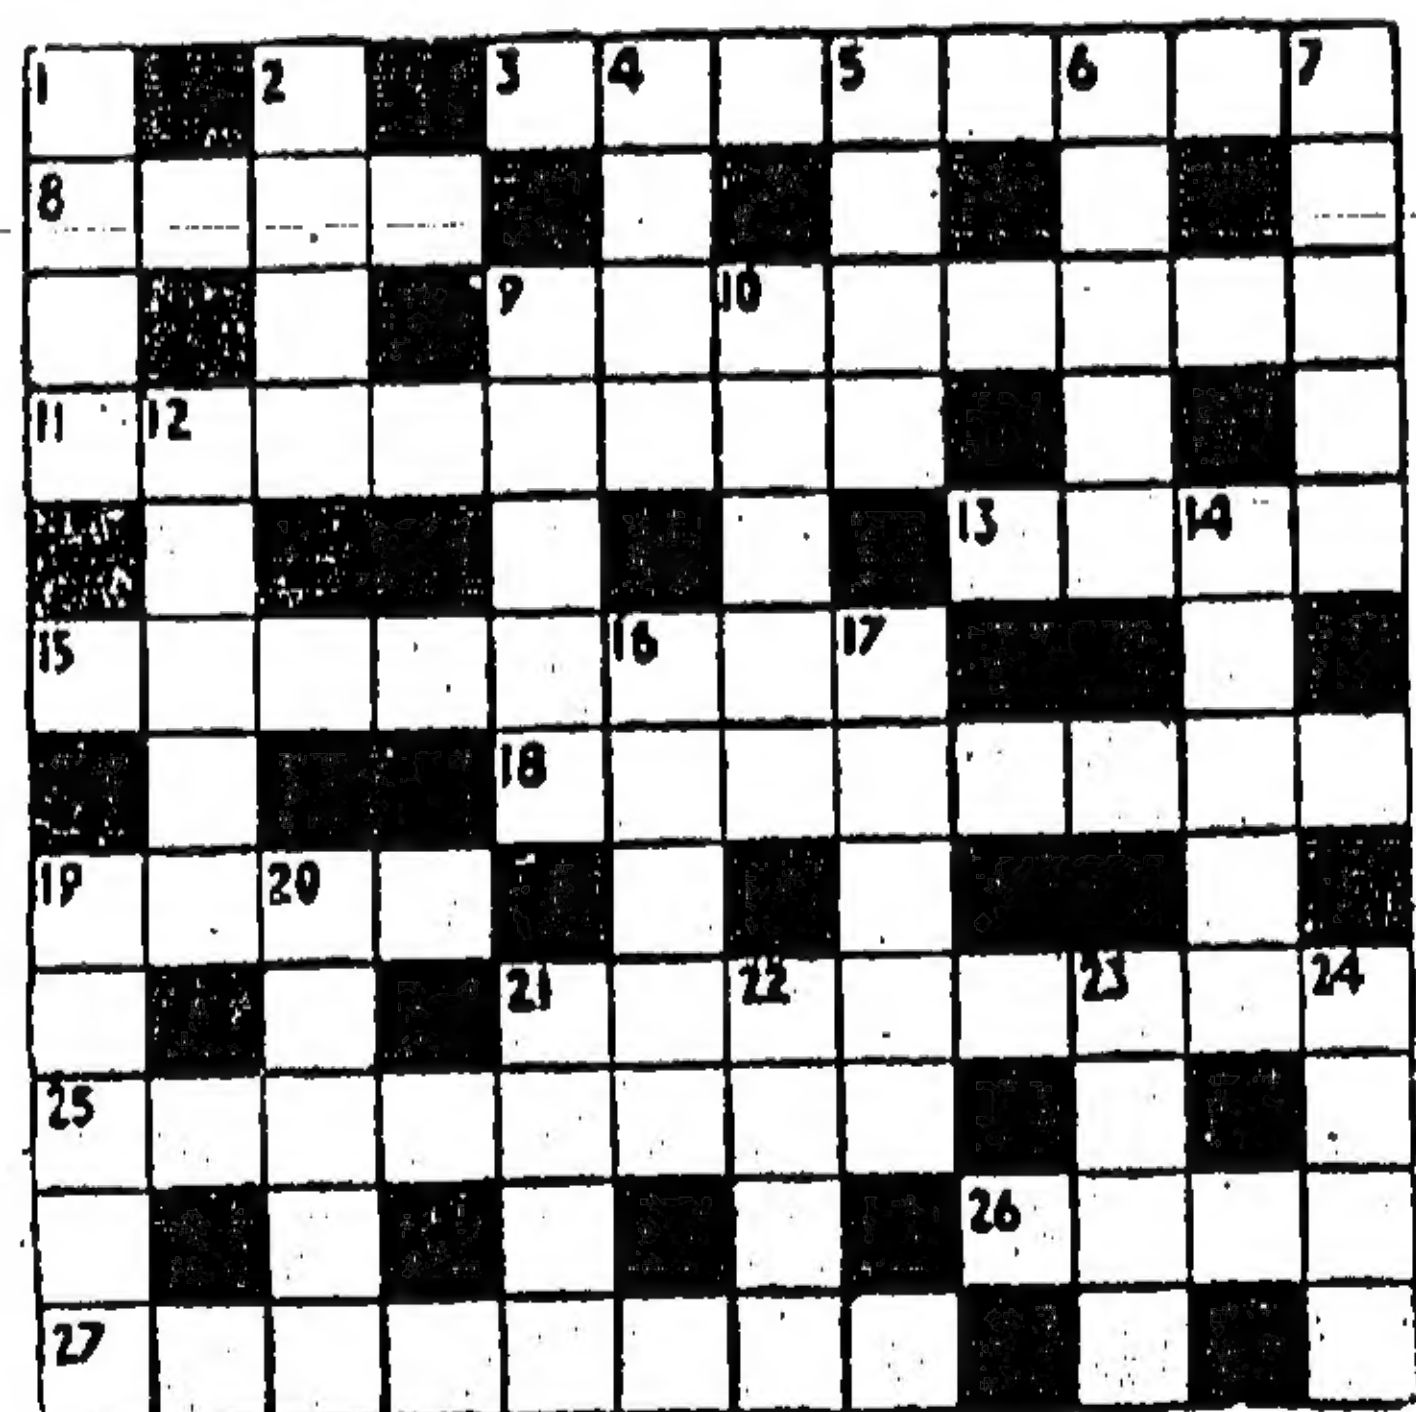

Washington, Oct. 31. Teamster President Dave Beck defied AFL-CIO Executive Council demands today and said the giant union has no intention of purging James R. Hoffa from its ranks.

Beck, who is slated to be succeeded by Hoffa as union president, said the Teamsters would appeal against their suspension by the Executive Council to the AFL-CIO convention in Atlantic City in December.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said in announcing suspension of the teamsters a week ago that Hoffa would have to be dropped or the Executive Council would recommend the Union's suspension at the December meeting.

Beck said that if the Teamsters' appeal to the AFL-CIO convention was turned down he was sure the teamsters would be expelled. Asked if he thought the appeal would succeed, Beck said, "I certainly would be an optimist if I thought so."—United Press.

But Proposed Reform May Become A Fact

London, Oct. 31.

British women today became virtually certain of entering the House of Lords, Britain's oldest Parliamentary institution, despite an uproar from the Lords, which sometimes bordered on misogyny.

Lord Attlee of the Labour opposition, and a Liberal Party spokesman both announced they would support a Government plan to set up life-time non-hereditary peerages for men and women alike, and give the Lords a per diem allowance.

But an 83-year-old grey-bearded Scot, the Earl of Glasgow, bemoaned the fact that women might be allowed to sit in the hitherto entirely masculine House of Lords.

"This is a house of men—a house of Lords. We do not want to become a house of Lords and Ladies," he said.

Lord Glasgow (Patrick James Sneyd), a Conservative Peer, was speaking in a House of Lords debate on reform in the Upper Chamber.

Lord Glasgow, a naval captain in the First World War, contended that women were "more moved by their hearts than their heads." They were excellent at welfare work, but most of them were "not suited for politics."

Peers laughed as he went on to grumble: "Many of us do not want women in this house."

He was against life Peers. The Government proposals, he said, would lower the efficiency and undermine the independence of the house as well as abolish its centuries-old traditions.

Lord Glasgow said he believed some would welcome to make a stand against the left-wing Conservatives and their Liberal supporters who at the present appeared to dominate the house.

Laughter

Amid laughter from Labour Peers, he said that if Lords were now to get three guilds expenses every time they attended a debate, there would be no difficulty in getting persons of Left-wing views to accept hereditary peerages.

"I hope the Conservative majority here will continue," he said, "to believe that only a minority want to turn this house into a bear den."

Referring again to women, he said the House had at least three times turned down their admission. "I hope you won't weaken now," he told his colleagues.

"We do not want to sit beside them on these benches," he went on.

"Nor do we want to meet them in the library."

In Favour

Earl Attlee, former Labour Prime Minister, thought women should be admitted.

He used to favour a single-chamber government, he said, but as a result of experience he believed in a second chamber.

"But one must not confuse a second chamber with the House of Lords," he added.

A revising chamber was needed, but that was very different from giving power to a non-elected and non-representative assembly to act against the will of the electors. (The House of Lords is largely made up of hereditary peers who sit there because of their titles).

Lord Attlee said the House of Lords was an anomaly but worked extremely well.

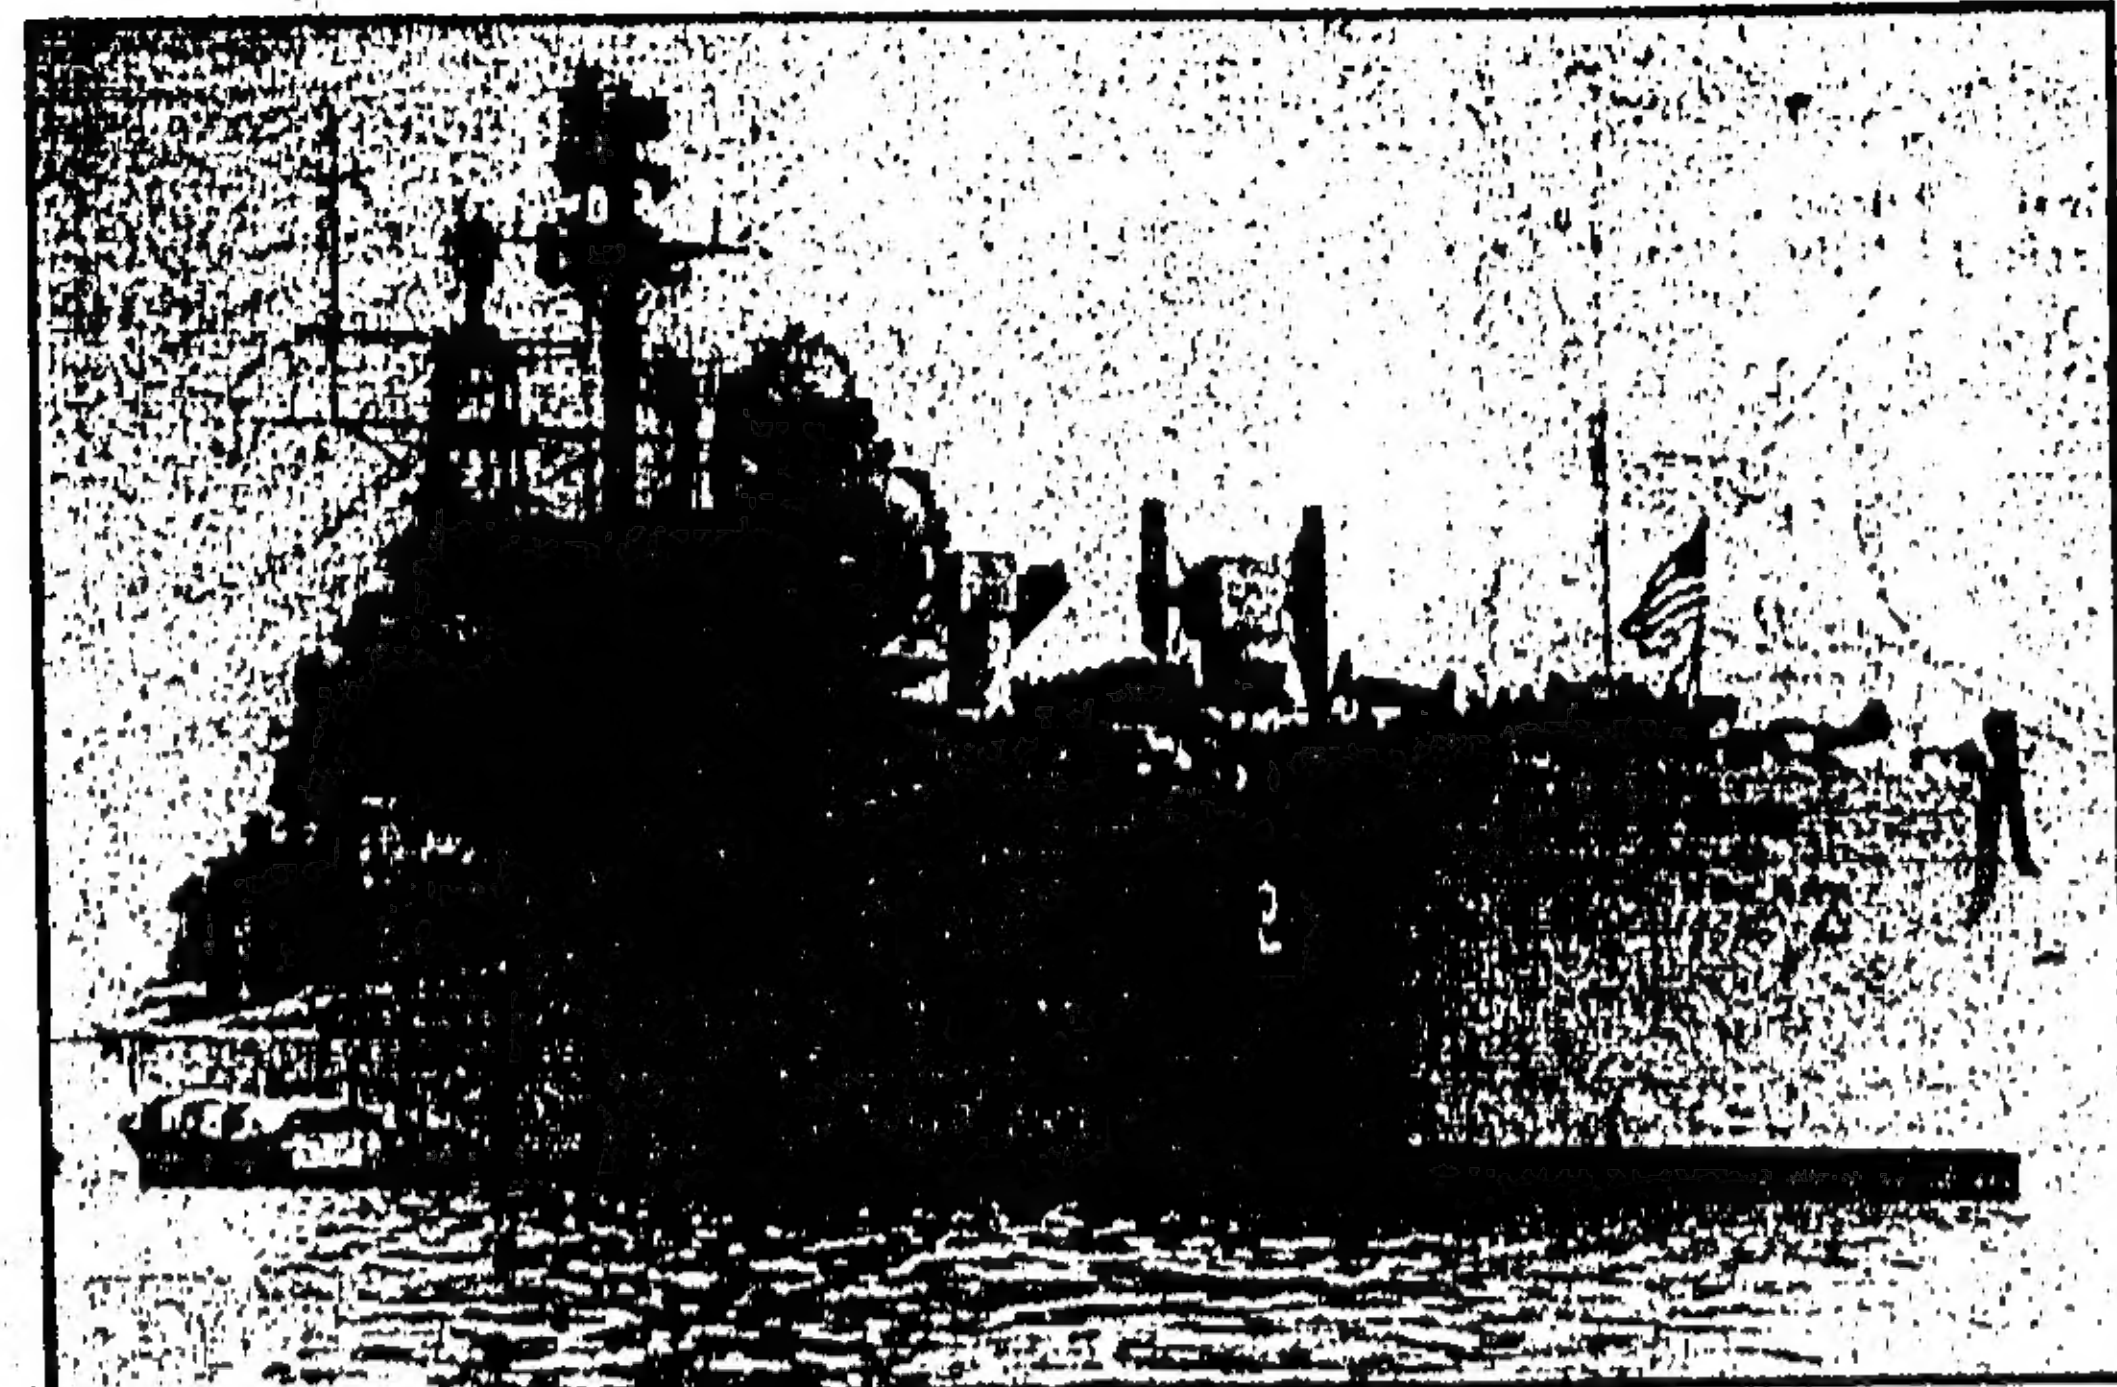

"The French are very logical and they have several governments a year," he said.—China Mail Special and France-Press.

BRITISH MILK BAN LIFTED

Windsale, Cumberland, Oct. 31.

Milk deliveries from half of the banned area district here were back to normal today. The partial lifting of the ban that followed an atomic accident was announced earlier this week after tests showed milk from the area to be safe. Thousands of gallons were dumped into the sea when the radiation count jumped after uranium canisters became overheated in the reactor here on October 10, sending radioactive vapour over the countryside.—China Mail Special.

A HIGHER DEFENCE BUDGET FOR U.S.?

Washington, Oct. 31. President Eisenhower may be planning substantially increased defence expenditures in the coming months.

Recent statements by the President and other Administration officials were being interpreted today as foreshadowing a significant and radical change in the

To Regain The Initiative From Russia

Government's thinking.

The reason for the projected change is the desire to spur efforts in the missile field with a view to regaining the initiative which the Soviet Union has seized.

The President hinted at the possibility of increased spending when he told his press conference yesterday that the $38,000 million figure, under which the Defence Department is operating, was not sacrosanct.

He said it was now believed that $400 million more could be allowed over the limit in the payment of obligations already before the Government.

Over the whole fiscal year ending on June 30, he added, there would be "something more than that."

The Administration is aiming at a total budget for the fiscal year beginning on July 1 of $76,000 million, but the President said it would require "very serious retortations elsewhere" if they were going to keep within that figure.

PUBLIC OPINION

Observers said that the Administration was obviously testing public opinion towards possible greater defence outlays.

The emphasis for the past year or more has been on reduced expenditures, with the economy-minded Congress exerting constant pressure on the Administration to slash funds with a view to providing tax relief in the 1958 congressional election year.

The Soviet earth satellite and development of the long range missile may persuade Congress as well as Administration officials to change their tune.

That is why a close watch will be kept on public reaction to the statements of the President and other officials.—China Mail Special.

PRIEST SUPPORTS JOSE RIZAL'S BOOKS: SUSPENDED

Manila, Nov. 1. A lone Filipino Catholic priest who defied the Catholic hierarchy by urging mass reading of the novels of the foremost Filipino hero Jose Rizal has been deprived of his ministerial duties.

The Catholic hierarchy announced yesterday that Fr. Joaquin Jaramillo had stoutly supported two years ago a Congress bill, now a law, making Rizal's works compulsory reading in Philippine schools.

The hierarchy opposed the bill because Rizal's novels bitterly attacked Spanish Catholic rule when the Philippines was still a colony of Spain.

Fr. Jaramillo can no longer say Mass and administer the Sacraments.—France-Press.

PICKETS TO PRAY FOR BAN ON H-TESTS

Washington, Oct. 31. Six national peace organizations will launch a month-long prayer programme here tomorrow, which includes daily prayers in front of the White House for a ban on nuclear weapons tests.

The organizations want the United States to call off nuclear tests immediately whether Russia stops or not.

They are the Baptist Pacifist Fellowship; Fellowship of Reconciliation; Friends Peace Committee of Philadelphia; Yearly Meeting of Friends; Non-Violent Action Against Nuclear Weapons; War Resisters League; and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

MEDITATION

Each day from noon to 2 p.m., the organizations said, groups will walk quietly back and forth in front of the White House "in a spirit of prayer and meditation."

They also will have poster walkers, leaflet distributors, and open-air speaking at the Atomic Energy Commission, State Department and other points of public policy decision.

The organizations said the prayers and demonstrations are "not intended as a protest demonstration."

"We are aware of the evil of totalitarianism and wish to stop its spread," the organizations said. "We have no faith that this can be done by increase of military and threats of massive retaliations with nuclear weapons."—United Press.

Pacifist Author Refused Entry To UK

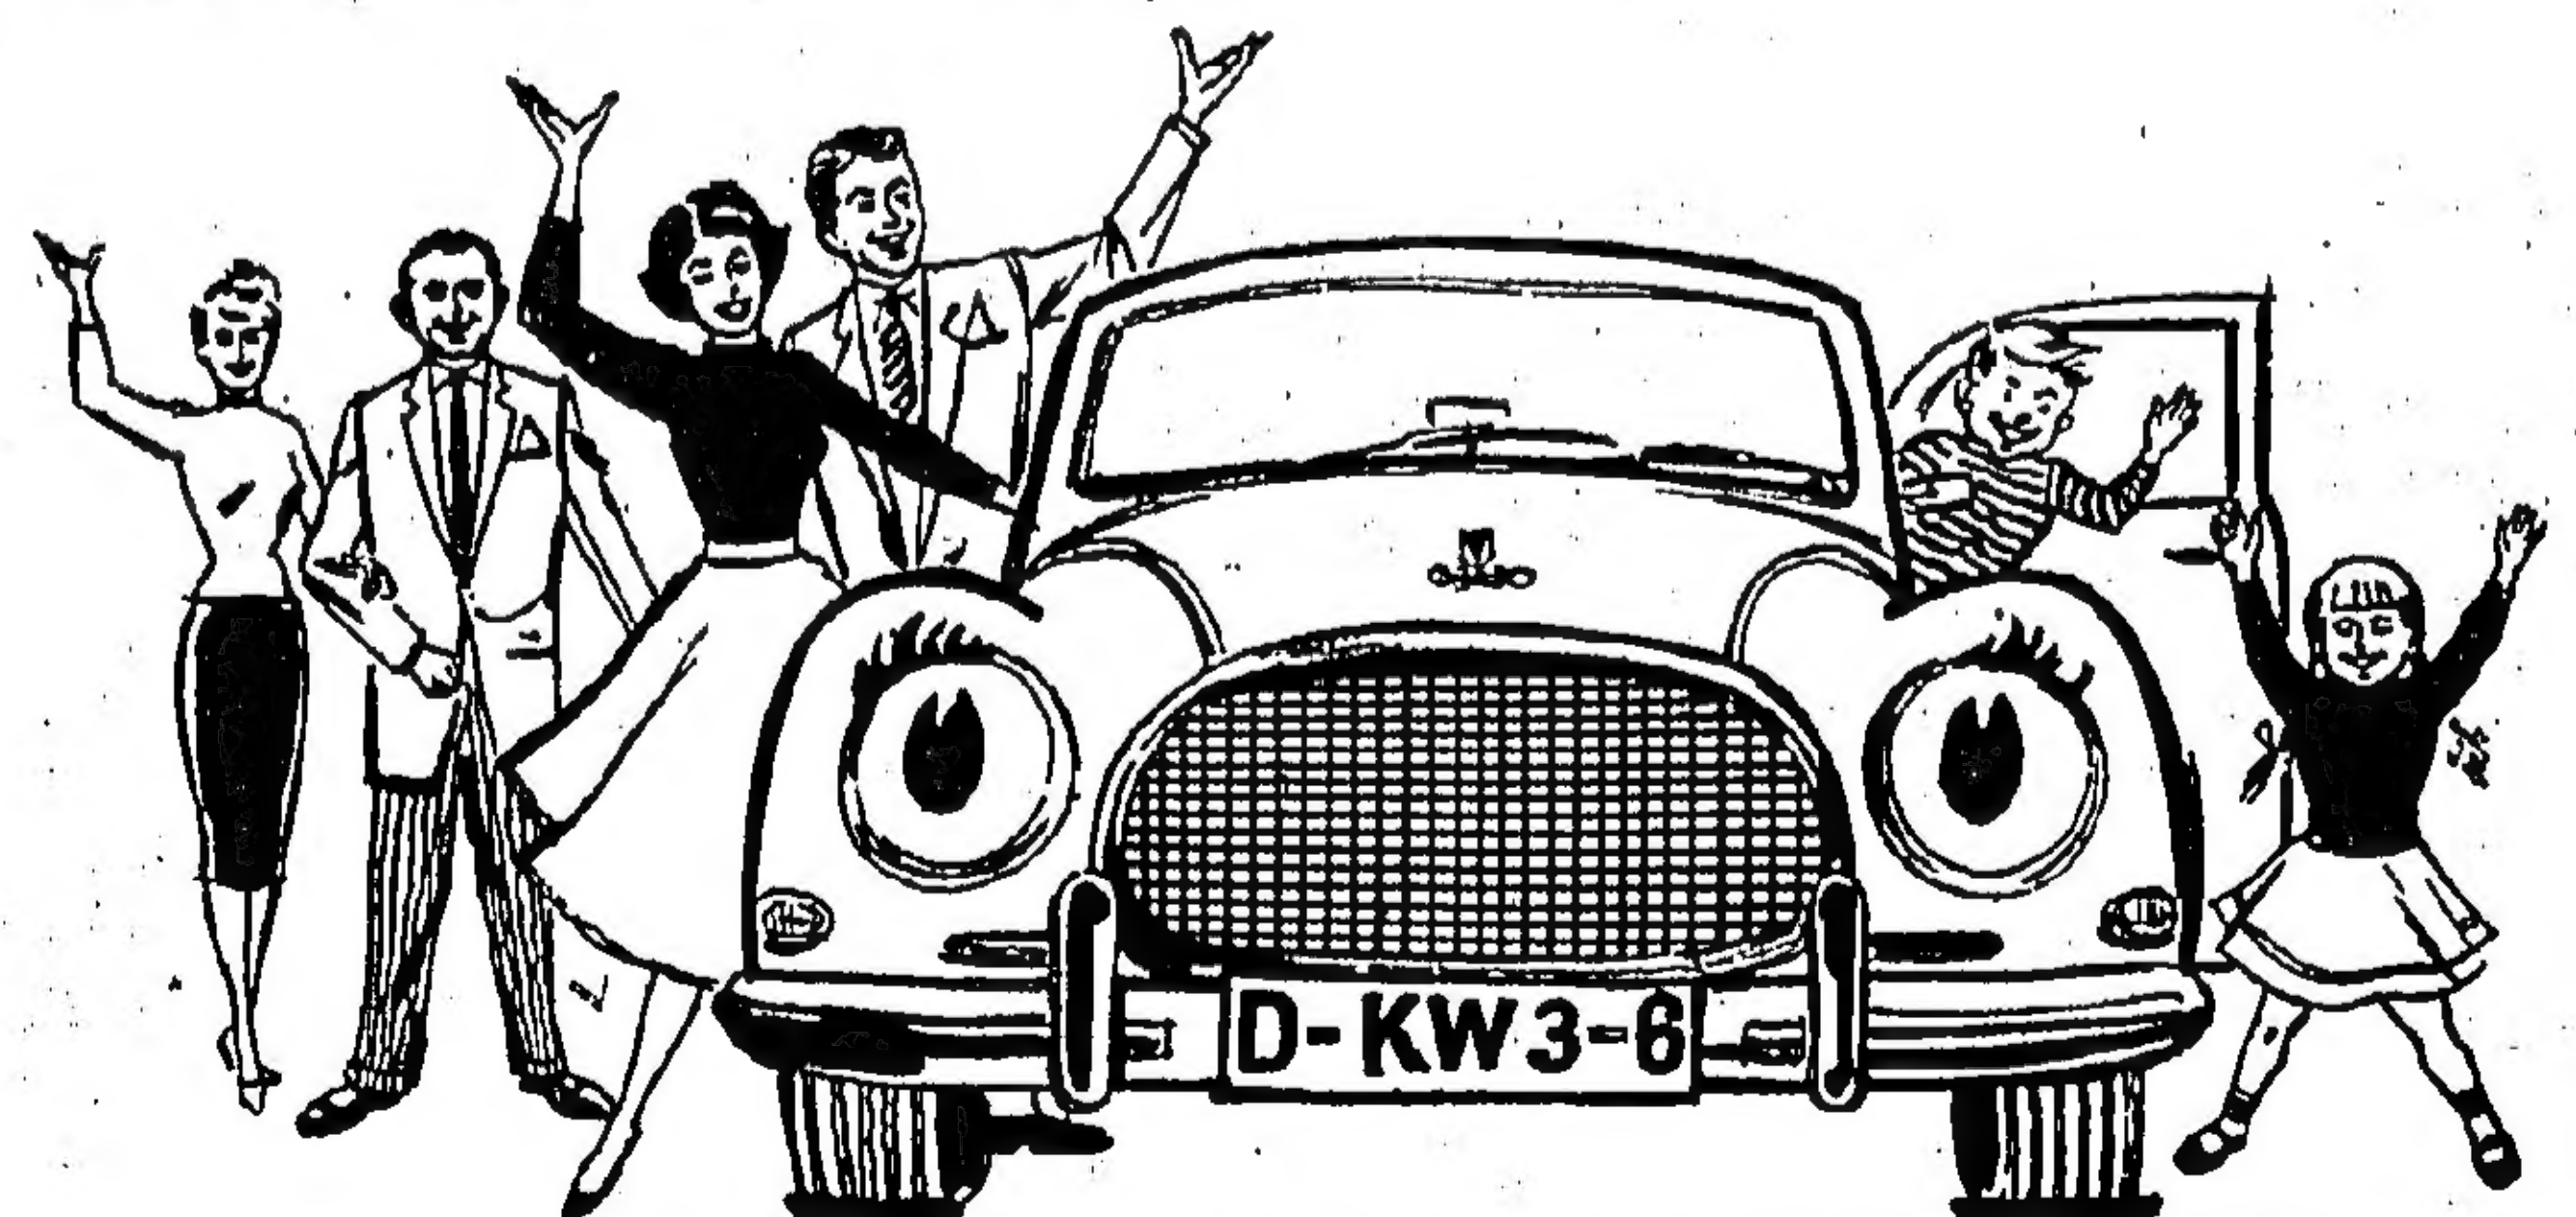

London, Oct. 31. American writer, Nathan Cooper, who claimed that he was the victim of hostility from the American authorities for his pacifist appeals, was today sent back to the U.S. after the British authorities had refused to allow him to land at Southampton.

Cooper has been shut up in an inner cabin of the "Queen Elizabeth," now en route to New York. His door is guarded.

Cooper spent two and a half days off Southampton on the liner after he had been refused permission to land because his replies to the questions of the British authorities were "too vague."

He sent a telegram in vain to Labour Party leader, Hugh Gaitskell, and 21 members of Parliament, asking for the right of asylum.—France-Press.

Financial note

THE announcement that the International Monetary Fund (IMF) will, at its next conference, consider a world subsidy to balance the falling prices of overproduced commodities will at once affect the whole plan for stabilized exchange rates, except in two or three unimportant areas where the mutualisation system is already in operation. It looks as though Bastiat's prediction, made nearly a hundred years ago, may prove to be well-founded. Bastiat said, in his Principles d'Économie, "A general fall in commodity prices will one day be reflected in a corresponding restriction of output."

YOUR BIRTHDAY ... By STELLA

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1

BORN today, you have a complex personality which sometimes you fail to understand. The stars have given you a wide variety of talents—and you are so adaptable by nature that you will be able to fit in almost anywhere. Consequently, you may not reach the heights to which you are entitled, since you adjust instead of fighting.

You also are somewhat lacking in concentration and unless you are vitally interested in a project, you will not exert yourself too much. Most things come to you easily, so why struggle for the superlative? Of course, if you can be satisfied with a relaxed and complacent mediocrity, all right. Your own needs are small and very little money satisfies you, provided you are allowed to go your own pace. But if you have a great deal of energy, it may be necessary for you to make more of a fight for your success.

You enjoy cultural and intellectual pleasures far more than material things. As long as you have a good book, your long-playing records of classical music and beautiful surroundings in which you live, you are satisfied. Your intuitions are keen and you have an interest in the supernatural. You may want to investigate such phenomena but must make sure that you do not become too involved emotionally. Wed while young, preferably someone who has the aggressiveness you lack. In this way you will always be kept on your toes and accomplish a great deal. Success is yours if you work for it. Among those born on this date, were: Stephen Crane, author; Benvenuto Cellini, artist; William S. Hart and William Hodge, actors; Laura La Plante, actress; King Gustavus Adolphus IV of Sweden; J.W. Packard, manufacturer.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—This is a routine day for you. Don't try to push things too far. Be satisfied with minor results now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—If in retail merchandising, you should find the profits running ahead of anticipations. A romantic day.

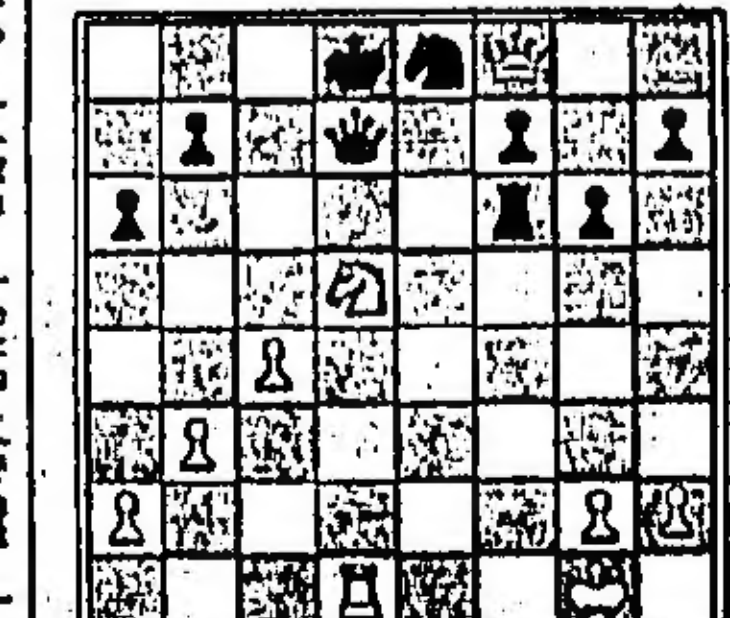

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Catch up on your letter-writing if you have been negligent lately. Visit a relative nearby.

ARQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—There is an undercurrent of adversity which calls for calm self-control on your part. Be tactful and patient.

CRAB (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Creative ideas have positive value today. Promote them and be adventurous in introducing them to the public.

West Shuts Out Dummy's Lead

By OSWALD JACOBY

SIDNEY LAZARD of New Orleans and Dr. John Fisher of Dallas won both the Men's Pairs and the Open Pairs at the Texas Regionals. Today's hand shows Sidney on defense.

He decided to open a trump. It seemed most unlikely from the bidding that this lead could cost him a trick and any other opening had elements of danger.

East won with the ace and promptly returned the deuce of hearts. South played the king. Sidney won with the ace and returned the jack.

Naturally, South won that trick with the queen. His next play was to lay down the king of clubs. Then the six of diamonds was placed on the table and it was up to Sidney to come through with the winning play.

An unthinking player might well have ducked that diamond lead but not Sidney. He took a little time to count the hand. John's dance of hearts lead had shown four to that declarer was marked with three cards in that suit. It seemed most likely that he held at least seven spades so that left only three cards for the minor suits. The club king had already shown up so he could not hold more than two diamonds.

If he held exactly two diamonds and the king it was necessary to play the ace to block him out of dummy. Sidney did play the ace and eventually declarer had to lose his six of hearts and go down one trick.

I asked Sidney what he would have done if South had played the king instead of a low diamond. He replied that he had made up his mind to play declarer for seven spades, three hearts, two diamonds and a club and therefore would have let the king of diamonds hold and shut declarer out of dummy that way.

NOW, at last I can be beastly...

And here's my dress of the week

I've found three people whose heads I'd cheerfully bang together

If you want to succeed as a columnist (ha, ha—who called the girl a columnist?) these days it seems you've got to be beastly to somebody. You've got to make lists of the Ten Most Hideous Women you know or the Five Men you'd cross the road to avoid passing the time of day with.

The celebrities I do know I like enormously—and no one wants to read that I'd go a long way to avoid old Charlie Stalk since he gave me that quick little nip on the hips when he helped me into my coat last Tuesday fortnight.

But a light dawned: I have received three hearty squelches from three shop assistants in one week. If I could line them up I'd cheerfully bang their silly heads together.

They have been warned. In the children's department: "Have you a cheap little tweed skirt for a 12-year-old?" "No," said the assistant grandly. "I wouldn't care to use the word 'cheap.' We may have something inexpensive."

In the model suit department: "The cut's fine and so is the tweed, but I'm sorry, it fastens far too low. See—it's open almost to the waist. I want a tighter suit to cover my chest." "I'm afraid," said the "vendusee"—looking anything but afraid—"that this is a suit to wear with fur."

In an underwear (sorry, "lingerie") department: "Have you a narrow slip with slits at the side?" Great drawers-full of frilled and drenched petticoats were heaped before me. "Narrow" with slits. I repeated: "What do you sell to go under the Sack?" "I wouldn't know," said the assistant snidely. "Our type of customer is definitely NOT sack-minded."

Skipper Knarf Sets Sail

—Mr. Merlin Makes His Wish Come True—

By MAX TRELL

IT was a warm sunny day. Knarf and Hanid, the Shadow Children with the turned-about names, said the thing to do on a day like that was to go down to the pond. "We'll go swimming," said Hanid. "And I'll sail my boat," said Knarf. A few minutes later, Knarf and Hanid were on their way to the pond. Nothing a figure walking ahead of them, they were surprised to recognize their friend Mr. Merlin. The Magnificent Magician.

Strange Fashion

He was dressed in a strange fashion; strange even for a magnificent magician. On his head, he wore a cap with white feathers. He wore a white coat, speckled with pink, his pants were pale yellow. But what was strangest of all were his shoes. They were bright yellow and were so wide and so floppy that they made flippety floppy noises as he walked along.

In fact, as Knarf and Hanid suddenly noticed, Mr. Merlin didn't seem to be walking at all, but waddling. "Mr. Merlin looks like a goose," said Hanid. Just then they caught up with Mr. Merlin, who took off his feathered cap and greeted them pleasantly. "Going for a swim, my dears?" Hanid said she was going for a swim and Knarf was going to sail his boat. Knarf was carrying a small sailboat under his arm.

Handsome Yacht

"Very handsome yacht you have there," said Mr. Merlin, looking at it. "I wish it were bigger," said Knarf. "Then I could sail in it myself."

"We'll see what we can do about that," said Mr. Merlin. "But let's get to the pond. The sun is bright and warm. It's a wonderful day for water sports."

Rupert and Rusty—16

When the cat reaches the long grass she stands on her hind legs trying to see over the top. Greatly puzzled, Rupert and Rusty silently move up beside her. There's something happening—or she wouldn't behave like that, whispers Rusty. Suddenly they hear noises some way off, the yapping of a dog and a man's gruff, fretful voice and then silence. After a moment the boy leads the way forward and the others follow. They reach an open space and gaze around, but there is now nobody to be seen.

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.

Knarf was getting ready to sail his boat.

Under The Water

Under the water, Mr. Merlin's feet moved up and down. Knarf and Hanid understood the use of the big yellow floppy shoes. They were like a duck's webbed feet. "Well," he called back from the water to Hanid. "How would you like to try my shoes for a while?"

"Oh! May I?" asked Hanid. Mr. Merlin, the Magnificent Magician, came out of the water and gave Hanid his big yellow floppy swimming shoes that were like the webbed feet of a duck.

Getting Ready To Sail

Meanwhile Knarf was getting ready to sail his little boat. "I still wish it could be a real boat so that I could sail on it," said Knarf. "Shut your eyes for a second," said Mr. Merlin. "We'll make it bigger."

Mr. Merlin did in that second that Knarf shut his eyes, but when he opened them again the little sailboat had grown into a big sailboat—and Mr. Merlin was lying on the deck sunning himself.

INTERNATIONAL OLYMPIC COMMITTEE CRITICISED ON OLYMPIC YACHTING

London, Oct. 31. The International Olympic Committee was criticised today for not awaiting "expert" views before deciding to institute a new Olympic yachting class — for Flying Dutchmen — in the 1960 Olympics in Rome.

The International Yacht Racing Union, at its meeting in London, was about to discuss the merits of the Flying Dutchman and international 5.5 metres classes before recommending one of them when it was learned of the committee's decision, made at their recent meeting in Sofia.

M. Deen Pehel, of France, read a letter to the yachtsmen from nearly 37 countries making it clear that the decision that Flying Dutchmen would compete in 1960 had already been made.

Mr. Peter Scott (Britain), President of the Union, said it was the first he had heard of it.

"I must say that the Olympic Committee should have awaited our views," he said.

VARIOUS BODIES

"Their action surprises me, for I have always found in the past that the committee has worked closely with the various Olympic sports governing bodies," Mr. Scott said.

Phnompenh, Oct. 31. A Malaya football team today beat a Cambodian team 3-1 in a soccer match here.

Malaya later scored two other goals in a fast moving game. — Reuter.

"Japan's Wonder Golfer" May Play In Britain

HOW GOOD IS NAKAMURA?

London, Oct. 31. Torakichi Nakamura, the Japanese golfer who won last week's individual title in the Canada Cup tournament in Tokyo, may play in the British Open Championship at Lytham and St Anne's, Lancashire, next summer, according to Maurice Hart, golfing correspondent of the London "Evening News".

"I understand," writes Hart, "the Royal and Ancient Club of St Andrews (governing body of the sport in Britain) are discussing the possibilities of Nakamura's first appearance in this country".

The London golfing writer, who refers to Nakamura as "Japan's wonder golfer," goes on to say that golfers everywhere now want to see how Nakamura would fare on a course outside his native Japan.

"A professional golfer, he will no doubt make the trip here, especially in view of his overwhelming victory in the Canada Cup," concludes Maurice Hart. — France-Press.

Wallabies Prefer To Run With The Ball

By JOHN COTTRELL

London.

One forecast can be safely made about the forthcoming tour of the Australian Rugby Unionists who arrived in Britain on October 24. Win or lose, the Wallabies, with their attractive open football, will provide wonderful entertainment. No kicking to touch whenever in trouble for these boys. All fifteen players, even the full-back, will run with the ball when the situation allows. Forwards will not monopolise the play; wing three-quarters will not be starved of the ball.

The reason is that the Wallabies are bred on the run-rather-than-kick principle. They have to play that way. At home they have a rule which forbids kicking to touch unless the ball first bounces in play.

Some people, including myself, would like to see that rule adopted in Britain, for an experimental period at least. But the Blimps of British rugby, ever ready to take supporters' hard cash, continue to argue that rugby is "a game for the players".

The Wallabies should teach these die-hards just how entertaining this game can be made for the spectators by cutting out needless kicking for touch.

Pace And Power

The make-up of their 38-strong party suggests that they shall see really first-class open football. It has youth, experience, versatility, pace and power.

Youth: This is one of the youngest Australian teams ever to venture abroad. Average age of the backs is 21, of the forwards 24. The two full-backs are both nineteen.

Experience: Seventeen players, seven of them forwards, have played for Australia in Test matches, and the veteran of the side, 29-year-old front row forward Nick Sheehy, has 28 international caps. He is the first Australian to make a second tour of Britain, having been a member of the last visiting Wallaby team ten years ago.

Versatility: Red Phelps, a utility back, has represented Australia at full-back, in the centre, and on the wing, while Des Connor is a scrum half, fly half or centre.

Pace: Alan Morton, a 18-stone wing three-quarter, has tremendous acceleration and is even described as "better than Enderby" the outstanding runner on the 1947-48 tour. Another winger, Ken Donald, has clocked 9.8 sec. for the 100 yards.

Power: Alan Cameron, 6ft. 8in. second row forward, tips the scales at 18st. 8lb. and four other forwards are 16-stoners. Average weight of the pack 14st. 4lb.

A team like this can produce wonderful open football, but whether it will prove successful in international matches remains to be seen. Much will depend on the weather. The Tests do not take place until January and February when the mud may be flying high. The Aussies are used to hard and fast surfaces, which is, of course, more suitable for their open game.

Combination

All the same, this looks a most formidable combination, one which could provide shocks for the four Home countries, and for France, where they continue their 1957-58 tour at the end of February.

It is a team which has been chosen according to current form and not reputations. The selectors' one mistake was, perhaps, the omission of Dr. Dick Tooth, who led the Wallabies against the New Zealand All Blacks earlier this year.

An outstanding full-back and valuable goal-kicker, Tooth was dropped after an "off-day" in the final Test. It was an excusable lapse. The following day he became a father.

This is the fifth Australian side to visit Britain. If we include a New South Wales side, "The Waratahs," which beat over in 1927. They beat Ireland, Wales and France, and delighted the crowds by stunning during passing movements, on their own goal-line.

The first Wallabies came in 1909 and played only two internationals, losing 6-9 to Wales and beating England 9-3. They won 25 of their 31 matches and scored 438 points against 146. Only one match was drawn.

The second Wallabies arrived in 1939, just in time to draw their gas masks for World War II. They went home without playing a single match.

The third Wallabies, in 1947-48, beat England, Scotland and Ireland, and lost 0-0 to Wales and 6-13 to France. In Britain, they won 25 of 30 matches, scoring 429 points to 197. Not one match was drawn.

Home Defeats

This time the Wallabies are sailing to Britain after crushing home defeats against the New Zealanders, 22-0 and 22-0. But it should be remembered that the great All-Blacks had only recently smashed the South Africans 60-year-old undefeated record in Test series.

Despite the strength of Australian "Rugby" football down under, the Wallabies were strong enough last year to give the Springboks a tough fight in two Tests. They lost 0-9 in both matches.

Following their meetings with the All-Blacks, the Australians have been giving more thought to forward training and it is significant that the Wallaby captain, Bob Davidson, is himself a prop forward.

But don't imagine that the Wallabies will put all the emphasis on giving more thought to forward training and it is significant that the Wallaby captain, Bob Davidson, is himself a prop forward.

Their international programme comes in the middle of the tour, when, after two months' hard rugby, the Aussies should be in their peak form. They kick off against Southern Counties at Brighton on November 6 and play their first Test against Wales on January 4.

So far only Wales, of the four Home countries, has ever beaten the Australians at Rugby Union. This year I expect some changes in this record.

The Wallabies will be striving to avenge their defeats by the Welshmen; and England, international champions and holders of the Triple Crown and Calcutta Cup, will be going all out to add to their fame with a victory over a touring side from the Dominions.

It all adds up to an exciting international rugby season — for spectators as well as players.

MAN IN SPACE

Edward G. In Nightmare

"MAN In Space" now showing at the Queen's and Alhambra will certainly cash in when at this moment (and I'm keeping my fingers crossed) a satellite is circling the earth.

If it is made by Disney, the picture must be good. It is good. I am not a scientist, and things before I can follow them. But even I have a very clear idea of what has to be accomplished before you can get one of these things in the air.

Disney uses the cartoon method but he uses top U.S. scientists to explain the phenomena associated with space travel. It is extraordinarily clear, and the cartoon method, or visual aid if you like, put pages of scientific data down in a few simple strokes of the brush.

Starting with the theory of Newton's that action begets reaction, something new is shown in a dog snoring, but goes on to the evolution of the rocket.

The last scene is a wonderfully imaginative construction of man's first flight into space. The experts called in to explain this are Willy Ley, physicist and scientist; Dr. Heinz Haber, noted scientist in astro-physics and space medicine; and Dr. Werner von Braun, formerly Hitler's top rocket designer, now working for the United States. It is a film every small boy will clamour to see, and rightly so, for he has a large stake in the future. On the other hand, the elementary explanations accompanying this film by no means reduce its scientific value. It is just a question of whether the film's interest outstrips his father's.

It is a fascinating venture into the know-how, and there should certainly be a link-up with the Authorities to see that this film is brought within the reach of every school child.

However, this particular rocket buckles in the topical sense. The commentators keep saying, "And soon we shall," and "I almost forgot. Filling up the programme is the River Pirates, with Fess Parker, Buddy Ebsen, and Jeff York as the starring trio.

urisation of famous frontier legends culled from American folklore. There is an exciting river battle which, I claim, will have every old and young boy rooting like blazes for Davey Crockett.

HYPNOTISM has always been a controversial subject, and its possibilities have provided many a hungry author with a plot. "Nightmare", now at the Star and Metropole exploits the subject and gives it a new angle by posing the fascinating question, can a person commit murder while under the influence of hypnotism, and remain unaware of it?

This film has Kevin McCarthy dream that he killed a man. The example of what the trade calls, a "Suspense Thriller."

dream is so vivid that he tells his brother-in-law Edward G. Robinson about it. Edward G. Robinson dismisses his brother-in-law's fear that the dream might be dreadful reality, until events reveal that a man has been murdered under the circumstances described in the dream.

This puts Edward G. Robinson in a fix, because he is a detective in this film; an unusual role to see him on the side of law and order.

This is a Fine-Thomas-Shane Production released by United Artists. I mention all that because emphasis is on the production side. It has a "Nightmare" score and sound sung by Miss Constance Russell called "The Nightmare Blues."

Billy May, one of the big names in jazz, credited with introducing the "new sound" to contemporary music is a composer, arranger, and band leader, and that is the part he plays in this film.

The camera work is good. A climactic moment demands that a brutal fight take place in an octagonal room completely mirrored so that dozens of images of the struggling antagonists are visible.

"Nightmare" is a good example of what the trade calls, a "Suspense Thriller."

NEW YAUMATI MARKET OPENED

Mrs. R. H. S. Lee cuts the ribbon at the opening of the new Yaumati market this morning.—China Mail Photo.

Biggest Built By Govt Since The War

Hongkong's new $1,000,000 market in Reclamation Street was officially opened this morning by Dr. R. H. S. Lee, a member of the Food and Market (Policy) Select Committee of the Urban Council.

The market, situated between Pakhoi and Kansu Streets, and serving the Yaumati District, is the largest one built by Government since the war.

Following the opening speech by Dr. Lee, Mrs. Lee was called upon by the Hon. E. D. Teeddale, Chairman of the Urban Council and Director of Urban Services, to cut the ribbon strung across the Kansu Street entrance.

A long string of firecrackers was touched off and cocktails were served.

Among Members of the Urban Council present were Mr. Brook Bernacchi, Dr. A. M. S. Bell, Dr. P. E. Wood, Mr. C. Y. Kwun, Mr. J. Hillier, Cheung-Loon, Mr. R. C. Lee, Mr. U. Tat-chee, Mr. Lee Yiu-ber and Mr. A. de O. Sales.

"Refuse from the upper floors is disposed of through a refuse chute, and there is another bay for the refuse vehicle to collect this. A room has been set aside for market stall lessees and their tools to use as a canteen. The building also houses offices for a Hawker/Market Inspector and Overseers on Hawker and Market work and Sanitation.

"As the market has been constructed with a view to vegetables and fruit being sold mainly by hawkers, special arrangements are being made by the Urban Council to deal with the hawkers in the neighbourhood.

"This is the biggest market constructed by Government since the war and judging by the bids made for the few stalls which were auctioned, it will attract a good deal of business."

Others included Mrs. E. D. Teeddale, Mr. D. C. Bray, Assistant Director of Urban Services (General) and Mr. A. W. White, Superintendent of Sanitary Services.

The new market, the architect of which is Mr. Juncan Chang, of the Public Works Department, is designed to meet the needs of present day market conditions.

It has 127 stalls in all with the fruit, vegetable and fish stalls on the ground floor, the poultry and meat stalls on the first floor; quarters for unmarried coolies and married quarters for foremen, drivers and gangers on the second floor.

On the third floor are quarters for inspectors and overseers and their families.

Dr. Lee said: "Yaumati is one of the most densely populated parts of the Urban Area and until 1953 had two public markets, one housing poultry, fruit and vegetable stalls and the other pork, beef and fish stalls.

"The first was known as Reclamation Street Market and occupied the site on which the new market now stands. The second market, the old Yaumati Market, was on the site which was used by the stallholders for their temporary stalls.

"The building of the old Yaumati Market was known to be in a weak condition after the war, and although regular maintenance was done the fabric was so dilapidated that the structure collapsed in July, 1953.

"When this happened, it was decided to build the new Yaumati Market and the poultry stalls from Reclamation Street Market were moved over to the site of the old Yaumati Market while the new building was constructed.

"The new market houses all the meat, fish, and poultry stalls from the old market with a considerable increase in the number of fish stalls available.

Application Opposed

An exemption application in which redevelopment of the site was opposed in principle rather than question of amount of compensation, opened in the Supreme Court today.

Mr. H. H. B. How presided over the Tenancy Tribunal comprising Mr. H. T. Barma and Mr. A. E. Xavier. He heard an application concerning Nos. 30/31, Jordan Road, Kowloon, brought by Mrs. Kwok Chun, owner of several properties valued at more than $700,000.

Mr. K. Y. Yung of Messrs. Zimmern and Company appeared for Mrs. Kwok. Opposing tenants were represented by Mr. I. R. A. MacCallum of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist; Mr. G. Hampton of Messrs. Hastings and Company; and Mr. A. Lui of Messrs. Lo and Lo appearing for one tenant who had agreed settlement terms.

Mr. H. F. D. authorised applicant, presented plans by which it was proposed to replace the existing four-storey Chinese-type houses with two seven-storey modern buildings costing $160,000.

The case is continuing.

17-year-old Girl Fined $500

Mr. Hin-shing Lo at Central Magistrate's Court this morning fined a 17-year-old girl $500 for importing 20 bars of gold, weighing 100.3 taels, into the Colony without a licence.

The girl, Wu Siu-foon, pleaded guilty through her counsel Mr. J. C. Stewart of Stewart and Co.

A search by a woman Revenue Officer after she left the Tak Shing on Wednesday revealed four bars of gold in a cloth bag around her waist.

Seven packets were found secured to the inside of her legs with rubber bands. Four of these packets were Chinese medicine and the other three were found to contain 10 gold bars.

127 Stalls

Others included Mrs. E. D. Teeddale, Mr. D. C. Bray, Assistant Director of Urban Services (General) and Mr. A. W. White, Superintendent of Sanitary Services.

The new market, the architect of which is Mr. Juncan Chang, of the Public Works Department, is designed to meet the needs of present day market conditions.

It has 127 stalls in all with the fruit, vegetable and fish stalls on the ground floor, the poultry and meat stalls on the first floor; quarters for unmarried coolies and married quarters for foremen, drivers and gangers on the second floor.

On the third floor are quarters for inspectors and overseers and their families.

Dr. Lee said: "Yaumati is one of the most densely populated parts of the Urban Area and until 1953 had two public markets, one housing poultry, fruit and vegetable stalls and the other pork, beef and fish stalls.

"The first was known as Reclamation Street Market and occupied the site on which the new market now stands. The second market, the old Yaumati Market, was on the site which was used by the stallholders for their temporary stalls.

"The building of the old Yaumati Market was known to be in a weak condition after the war, and although regular maintenance was done the fabric was so dilapidated that the structure collapsed in July, 1953.

"When this happened, it was decided to build the new Yaumati Market and the poultry stalls from Reclamation Street Market were moved over to the site of the old Yaumati Market while the new building was constructed.

"The new market houses all the meat, fish, and poultry stalls from the old market with a considerable increase in the number of fish stalls available.

Staff Quarters

"Fruit and vegetable stalls have not been fully re-provisioned, since these have never done very great business after the war because of the large increase in the trade in vegetables and fruit by hawkers.

"The market contains 29 pork stalls, 16 beef stalls, 18 poultry stalls, 63 fish stalls, two fruit stalls, six vegetable stalls and one ice stall.

"On the top floor of the building have been constructed quarters for Urban Services Department staff to replace those in the old Kowloon Magistracy Building. That building, too, is one of the oldest Government buildings in Kowloon and will be demolished when the staff move into the new building.

"The stalls in the new market have been designed on the lines of those used in Central Market. Because of the large number of stalls on the first floor level, a hoist has been installed to carry supplies of meat and poultry which can be unloaded at a special vehicle unloading bay in the corner of the market.

Heroin Appeal Continues In Supreme Court

Mr G. R. Sneath, Crown Counsel, this morning submitted before the Full Court that there had been sufficient evidence on which to convict an appellant of taking part in the manufacture of heroin seized in a house in Clearwater Bay Road.

The contentions were made at the hearing of the appeal against conviction and sentence by five men who were sent to prison by Mr Justice C. W. Rogers at the September Criminal Sessions.

The Chief Justice, Mr Justice M. J. Heenan, and the Senior Puisne Judge, Mr Justice T. J. Gaud, comprised the Court.

The first appellant, Cheung Chung-man (represented by Mr H. L. Hu, instructed by Mr G. E. S. Stevenson, of J. C. Stewart and Co.) was sentenced to a total of seven years for manufacturing heroin and possession of more than eight pounds of the drug.

Yau Kwok-shing and Cheung Shing were each given five years for manufacture while Cheung Yau and Wong Yuk-shing each received a total of six years for manufacturing and possession. These four men are not represented by Counsel.

Replying to submissions made by Mr Hu on Wednesday, Crown Counsel agreed that the Trial Judge, in his summing-up to the Jury about the question of control of the house, had expressed certain opinions.

But, Mr Sneath said, at the outset of the hearing, His Lordship had warned the Jury that they should disregard his expressions of opinion if they found that they could not agree with them, and that they were his sole judges of fact.

Having put to the Jury that the Prosecution relied on evidence that the first appellant was involved in manufacturing, Mr Sneath continued, the Trial Judge went on to tell them that they could consider the possibility of aiding and abetting.

Traces of Heroin
Crown Counsel said the appellant visited the house on a number of occasions. There were also traces of heroin inside his car.

Mr Sneath said first appellant lied to the Police about not knowing the second, third, fourth and fifth appellants.

He said it was therefore up to the Jury to decide whether the first appellant's connection with the house was a guilty one or not, and if so, whether or not the guilt was in the nature of manufacturing.

Hearing is continuing.
